

Josiah pendant lights

Terence Woodgate

The Josiah pendant lights are made in bone china, they have been tailor-made to accommodate the latest low-energy, long-life compact fluorescent light bulbs. Terence Woodgate has created a forward thinking design, notable for its simplicity, elegance and grace. Josiah is made in Stoke-on-Trent, the spiritual home of English fine bone china, famous for its whiteness and translucent quality. The Josiah lights are as versatile as they are beautiful; they can be fitted with the latest innovative light sources, making them suitable for both commercial and residential environments. Each lamp is suspended by a braided textile cable available in white, red or grey. When unlit the shades have a high gloss super white presence and when lit they provide a soft warm glow. Made in the UK.
