Lowes Furniture is a local manufacturing company based in Melbourne, Australia. Owned and founded by Andrew Lowe in 2000, Lowes Furniture's vision is to recreate the beauty and seamlessness of nature within a space where people live and work.

Lowes Furniture is deeply passionate about timber. This combined with extensive timber knowledge, design skills and precision handcrafted manufacturing, means Lowes Furniture produce timeless timber pieces

Timber is a renewable resource and Lowes Furniture vigorously strives to work only with plantation and Forestry Stewardship (FSC) timbers. Lowes Furniture avoids working with rainforest timbers.

Lowes Furniture predominantly work with American hardwoods, including oak and walnut. Like a tree in the ground, timber reacts to its environment and naturally changes over time. The Lowes Furniture design and manufacturing process closely considers such change, however, each tree and therefore piece of timber is unique and all changes cannot be accounted for in any design and manufacturing process.

Caring for & Cleaning a Lowe Furniture Product

Lowe Furniture recommends the use of a warm damp (water only) rag or sponge to clean a product. When cleaning, do not rub vigorously in one spot. Abrasive cleaners and /or polishes should not be used.

Heat

Lowe Furniture products should not be exposed to excessive or constant heat. For example hot plates and cups may burn, damage or discolour the timber. Lowe Furniture products should not be placed close to heaters, over heating vents, or next to something that permits excessive or a constant heat.

Sunlight

Lowe Furniture recommends that a product not be exposed to excessive sunlight which may cause the timber colour to change over time and the timber to shrink.

Humidity and Moisture

Lowe Furniture products should not be exposed to excessive humidity or moisture, which may cause damage to the timber e.g. if the space in which the product is located has a dampness problem, this may affect the product.
